A Commercial Love Letter-Business and a Beating

Heart. In France, women take an active part in the business of life, which, however, does not prevent their being objects of love and adoration, as much as the idlest of their sex. The combination of romance and reality is curiously illustrated by the following letter, found in a railway carriage:

PARIS, 29th June, 1851. " Madam: In teply to yours of the 29th of June last, which duly came to hand, I beg to say that I have forwarded the samples you asked for, together with the price current of the article in question.— And now I return to the object of my former letter -indeed I cannot take your answer as a definite one-indeed you will listen to my devoted love. At your age you cannot long remain a widow-you have nothing to fear from so easy a temper and devoted a love as mine. The house of Chartler & Co. have asked for six months' credit; are you disposed to grant it? Answer, by return of post, this question, and the one which concerns the happiness of my life. You are the realization of all my dreams. The affection, respect, and esteem I feel for you, are sincere and profound. The union of our two houses would give an extension to business on both sides. which would be incalculable. I have accepted your paper upon the house of Bernard & Co. Colza oil Hoping for a reply by return of post, I close this letter with a beating heart. Yours respectfully.
